Was Never Caught.

Believing that the woman who was killed during a pistol duel with detectives in a Raines law hotel in New York last night may have been Mary Miller, also known as "Maid Mary," a notorious servant girl thief, who about two years ago stole diamonds and other jewelry valued at $10,000 from the home of Miss Mary B. Adams, 1621 New Hampshire avenue, the Washington police this morning wired the New York authorities to forward a photograph of the dead woman.

The police have also requested that a photograph of Sophie Beckendorf, a domestic, who had been held for the grand jury on a charge of stealing diamonds from a home where she was employed as a domestic, be forwarded. The Beckendorf woman, according to the press dispatches, made a confession implicating the Vogels, saying she had turned over the stolen goods to them.

Killed By Male Companion.

The woman shot in New York was registered at the hotel as Lottie Vogel. She was shot and killed by her male companion, who was registered as Joseph Vogel, a Pole, whose real name, the police of New York declare, was Phares Doragyski. In trailing the Vogel pair the detectives who were shot and dangerously wounded, believed they had run down a well-organized gang for robbing handsome residences in New York. The plan of operation, it is said, was for a girl alleged to have been associated with the Vogels to get employment as a domestic, and then rob her employer's home.

Miss Adams' home was robbed by a young woman who had been given employment as a maid. She gave the name of Mary Miller, a Pole, whose real name, the police of New York declare, was Phares Doragyski. In trailing the Vogel pair the detectives who were shot and dangerously wounded, believed they had run down a well-organized gang for robbing handsome residences in New York. The plan of operation, it is said, was for a girl alleged to have been associated with the Vogels to get employment as a domestic, and then rob her employer's home.

Worked in Other Cities.
Detectives were soon at work on the case, and several suspects were arrested in different parts of the country, but Mary Miller was never taken into custody. From other cities the police heard of the operations of "Maid Mary" before she came to Washington. Even after robbing the Adams' home she operated extensively in other places. The police say that the alleged operations of the Vogels in New York was identical with the work of Mary Miller. They also say the meager description of the dead woman tallies with that of "Maid Mary."

Detectives who worked on the case here were convinced at the time that the woman had a male accomplice, although no direct evidence to that effect was ever obtained. The woman made what the police term a clean getaway. The only trace of her after she left the Adams home was at a drug store, where she stopped to telephone. It was believed this message was sent to a male confederate.

Three Dead and Four Injured in Battle
Over Jewel Thefts

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Three bodies in the morgue; two men struggling for life in the hospital with apparently no chance to recover; two men slightly wounded, and a mass of baggage at the headquarters of the Bronx detective bureau, were the results of a battle over jewel thefts.

Turkish Soldiers, Under General Mahmoud Mukhtar, Marching to Defend Constantinople

BULGARS AND TURKS
HALT LONG BATTLE
TO BURY THE DEADAgree on Eight-Hour Armistice After Fierce
Fighting at Forts Before Constantinople.
Plague Kills Many.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 19.—Fighting between the Turks and Bulgarians was halted this afternoon, when the latter agreed to an eight-hour armistice to bury the dead. The number of soldiers killed in the last few days has been very large.

For thirty miles, from the Black sea to the sea of Marmora, there are many bodies both within and in front of the Chatalja line of forts. The fighting has been waged so fiercely that the hospital corps have not dared to face the fire.

Now Down Bulgarians.

Losses on both sides were placed at thousands. Most of these, it was said, had been shot or slain with swords, but a great many were victims of terrible pestilence, due to improper sanitation and lack of medical aid. In the battle that has been in progress since Sunday the Turks have been holding their own, mowing down hundreds of Bulgarians as they attempted to force their way toward Constantinople. Re-enforcements were arriving from the front, and the Bulgarians were weakening.

Following a consultation between the Sultan and the Sheikh-ul-Islam today, the latter sanctioned the burning of the bodies of cholera victims. He acted in deference to the wishes of army officers and medical men, though cremation is in violation of the Mohammedan religion.

CETTINJE, Nov. 19.—Montenegrins and Serbians today jointly occupied Alessio, twenty-five miles south of Scutari.

SOFIA, Nov. 19.—Bulgarian plenipotentiaries were appointed today to arrange a general armistice with the Turks.

The government admitted today that cholera had broken out among the Bulgarian troops before Constantinople.

Austria Sends Ships.
PARIS, Nov. 19.—Austrian warships were reported today on their way to Adriatic ports which King Nicholas' government is determined itself to take.

That Austria has demanded a definite Serbian announcement within a short time, renouncing all claims to an Adriatic outlet, or Austria will resort to a military demonstration to enforce its wishes—really an ultimatum—was also rumored.

Hide Names of Dead.

SOFIA, Nov. 19.—In response to a pitiful appeal from thousands of wives and mothers to relieve their mind-wrecking suspense by the publication of lists of casualties among the Bulgarian troops at the front, the government today announced that it is "regretfully compelled to adhere to its policy of publishing no lists of dead or wounded after the war." The announcement begged Bulgarian women to "be strong for the sake of the fatherland."

MONEY TRUST
PROBE GIVEN
NEW INCENTIVEPowerful Banking Interests
Accused of Aiding New England Monopoly.

Did the house of Morgan or other powerful American banking interests reach over into London and shut off the credit of the Grand Trunk in England, when that road was seeking advances of $82,000,000 for purposes of railroad construction?

This is the highly interesting question that is going to be put up to the Pujol committee of the House, which is entrusted with the investigation of the Money trust.

Complain at White House.

The fact that the Pujol committee would be urged to go into this matter and find out whether the tentacles of an alleged Money trust had been reaching over the ocean in the manner indicated came out today in connection with the visit to the White House of members of the Rhode Island and Massachusetts public utilities commissions who are stirred up over the stopping of work on the Southern New England line protected by the Grand Trunk.

The members of these commissions are conferring with the President, with Attorney General Wickersham, and with the Interstate Commerce Commission today in efforts to get inquiries started that will break the grip of the New Haven monopoly on New England. At the same time, they plan to carry the investigation to the House committee and find out how far vast American banking interests have been co-operating with the New Haven in the situation that has stirred public sentiment all over New England.

MOTHER'S PROTEST

ANSWERED IN COURT

Mrs. Elizabeth Cameron Seeks Removal of Daughter From Academy Here.

In an answer to the petition of his divorced wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Cameron, who seeks the removal of their daughter, Elizabeth Ann Welsh, from the Holy Cross Academy, William H. Welsh today informed the District Supreme Court that the child has been placed in the institution at the order of Justice Wright, and with the consent of Mrs. Cameron.

LOW RATE WILL BE REQUIRED OF WATER USERSSecretary Fisher Threatens
Electric Companies With Loss of Permits.

Secretary of the Interior Fisher today told Owen Crosby and other public service corporation capitalists how the Federal Government, through the Interior Department, plans to force electric light companies operating on the public domain to grant reasonable rates to consumers, no matter if they have ancient contract rights at unreasonable rates.

This announcement of Secretary Fisher is of great importance in Colorado, California, Wyoming, the Dakotas, and other Western States where water monopolies are in control of large quantities of water powers. The effect upon the power companies of these States will be more far-reaching than in the East.

Will Revoke Permits.

If public service corporations losing their cases in State courts insist on filing bills of equity in Federal courts, and dragging and delaying the matter, the Interior Department will revoke the permit under which the company is using water power on the public domain. "Permits in the first place are to be issued," according to Secretary Fisher, "on the express provision that the permittee, the company, by the acceptance of the grant, agrees to comply with such reasonable regulations of its rates and service as may be prescribed by the State or the appropriate State agency delegated."

In other words, the Interior Department will have some control over the power companies, both coming and going. First, to get the permits, the companies must agree to reasonable rates as prescribed by the States. Later, if disagreement ensues and the matter is fought out in the State courts, with the company losing—if then the company seeks to get the matter into the Federal courts and up to the United States Supreme Court, the Interior Department will at once revoke the permit, leaving the company high and dry.

Ready To Go Whole Route.

"You say that the matter of rates ought to be regulated by the State authorities," said Secretary Fisher, addressing the fifty or more representatives of power companies gathered in his office today. "Very well, we will go the whole route with you. If after the State authorities have decided it and the matter has gone through the State supreme court then if you insist on some legal right of going into the Federal courts with a bill of equity claiming relief, in the Interior Department will revoke your license."

WILSON'S PIE LIST
WITHIN THE LIMIT
OF 300 POSITIONSPresident-Elect Will Have at His Disposal
the Naming of Cabinet Members
Down to Coachmen.

By JUDSON C. WELLIVER.

President Wilson will have at his disposal, in the entire civil service establishment in Washington, just about 360 positions which he may fill during his term of office.

This includes everything from nine members of the Cabinet down to the coachmen for those officials to whom coachmen are provided by the Government. Coachmen and Cabinet members are alike, in that there is no civil service requirement that they shall be competent to hold their jobs.

GIBSON'S ATTORNEY
FORCED TO REPROVE
ACCUSED AND WIFEFrequent Interruptions by Both Cause Sharp Tilts
Between Them.

GOSHEN, N. Y., Nov. 19.—Friction between Burton W. Gibson, the lawyer on trial for the murder of Mrs. Rosa Szabo in Greenwood Lake last July, and his counsel, was evident several times during the trial today. Both Gibson and his wife, who has a seat alongside of counsel, and has had a great deal to do with the management of the case, frequently interrupted Robert W. Elder, chief counsel for the defense, in his interrogation of witnesses and on at least one occasion, Elder sharply reproved both of them.

The story of the death of the woman was told by a dozen persons who observed the actions of the couple during their stay at the resort.

Not Much, But It's Some.

Out of the 25,000 more or less, of Government positions in Washington, this is the whole pie that can be sliced and distributed by the President. Still, it's some pie, for it includes the best salaries in the Government.

In addition to those officials included in this count, there are the places on the Supreme Bench. These are not counted because it is impossible to guess how many of them may be present to the President's appointment. He can't remove Supreme Judges, but he does have the authority to appoint them—if he doesn't quarrel with the Senate about it.

This list, prepared for The Times by official authority, but making no pretense to absolute accuracy or completeness, is nevertheless as correct as the best informed officials could make it. Here is, in brief, what it shows:

TAKE CHEMIST
AS SLAYER OF JOSEPHS BOYJ. Frank Hickey Arrested in
New Jersey on Order
From Buffalo.CHIEF SAYS WRITING
LIKE THAT ON CARDSDeclares Man Was Employed at Lackawanna Steel Plant When Lad Was Missed.

TOMS RIVER, N. J., Nov. 19.—J.

Frank Hickey, a well-known chemist, was arrested near Whiting, this county, by Sheriff Chilton today at the request of the Buffalo, N. Y., authorities on a charge of murder.

It is alleged that he was the slayer of little Joseph Josephs, whose dismembered body was found in a cesspool at Lackawanna, N. Y., near Buffalo, on Saturday.

The sheriff went to Keawick, just outside of Whiting, today, and placed Hickey under arrest, bringing him to this town, where he will be held until the authorities arrive from Buffalo.

Says Handwriting Corresponds.

According to the sheriff, Hickey denied positively any knowledge of the murdered boy. He denounced his arrest as an outrage, and said that he would be able to prove his innocence very easily.

The arrest was made on the telegraphed order of Chief of Police Regan, of Buffalo, who said that Hickey was employed at the Lackawanna Steel Company's plant, and the time the Josephs boy was missed and that his handwriting corresponded with that of the writing on the postal cards sent to Buffalo.

Man of Iron Nerve.

Hickey, who says he originally came from Lynn, Mass., is a man of iron nerve. He is polished and intelligent and when arrested and heard the murder charge read to him, by the sheriff, smiled.

"I will willingly waive extradition," he said. "The charge against me is ridiculous. I can easily prove my innocence." Then he bit the end from a cigar and prepared to accompany the sheriff.

Handwriting in Letter
To His Former Employer
Led to Hickey's Arrest

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 19.—News of the arrest of J. Frank Hickey at Tom's River, N. J., was received with satisfaction by John Hoskyn, chief millwright of the American Chemical Agricultural Works of this city. It was written to him by Hickey, he says, and is said to be in the same handwriting as the postal cards dealing with the crime.

Hoskyn says the writer applied for a job on September 13, 1911, and only four days later quit and promised to write to him. The letter came on February 1 of this year. When the fac-similes of the postal cards were published Hoskyn said he was struck by the remarkable similarity of the writing and immediately sought Chief Regan, of Buffalo, and gave him the letter. After comparing the letter and the postal cards the demand for the arrest of Hickey was sent out.

FIVE ARE KILLED
IN HOTEL BLAZEHeroism of Employes Save More
From Death at Los Angeles Fire.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 19.—Five persons are dead and twelve injured, several fatally, as the result of a fire which practically destroyed the St. George Hotel, on East Third street, near Main, early today. Only the heroism of the employes of the hotel and of the firemen prevented many others from perishing.
